Headline:
Cloudy with patchy rain and hill snow today. Feeling cold.

Today:
Generally a cloudy and murky day, with outbreaks of patchy rain moving southwards. The rain turning a little wintry at times, mainly on the Lincolnshire Wolds. Further showers following on behind later, mainly affecting coastal districts. Feeling rather cold. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Tonight:
Any showers confined to coastal areas overnight, with perhaps the odd shower penetrating inland, turning wintry on hills. Otherwise, dry with clear spells. Frosty inland, with icy patches forming. Cold. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Saturday:
After a cold and frosty start, it will be largely dry with sunny spells. Chance of some coastal showers, these may penetrate further inland, where wintry on hills. Staying cold. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Staying cold, with a mixture of rain, sleet and snow throughout the period. Snow mainly confined to hills, but not exclusively. Frost and ice risk throughout. Windier by Tuesday.
